Debunking the thinnest condom myth

Other condom brands claim to be so thin, they're "nude" or "naked".

Latex thickness in condoms is measured in microns.
1 micron = 1/1000th of a millimetre.
That's so tiny, it's microscopic!

At 55 microns, GLYDE condoms are as thin as a condom can be without compromising strength.

Don't be fooled by the "thinnest" condom hype.

Always use additional GLYDE lubricant with latex condoms.

GLYDE condoms are included on Australian Register of Therapeutic Goods (ARTG), medical devices under EEC legislation and US FDA 510(k).
